“A New Season of Transformation”

Today could be a defining moment in your life. You may have thought that this was just an average, ordinary, run-of-the-mill kind of day, but something greater is happening.

God circled today—this very moment—on the calendar of your life to be a new beginning. A season of divine transformation. An opportunity for breakthrough. From weeping to rejoicing. From broke to blessed. From history to destiny...

Transformation deals with new levels. It's about God doing something so big...so bold...so out of the box, your whole life will be revolutionized by His blessings. And when God begins to take you into new dimensions of blessing, no devil in hell or on earth can stop His supernatural work in your life.

Every pain you have God can heal!
Every dream that has died, God can resurrect!

So get ready to experience a new level of favor. A new realm of provision. A new dimension of blessing. Don't let the uncertainty you face today shake your faith for tomorrow's victories. Everything you have been through was simply a preparation for tomorrow. A new day. A new day. A new level. A new season of transformation.

Have a blessed week! See you in church Sunday. I am continuing my homilies on Psalm 23.
